

Commercial Construction

A.L. Pickens Company represents the most comprehensive electrical manufacturers for the commercial construction markets in the industry. The products we offer are innovative solutions to various applications and designs. These industry leading manufactures produce products which guarantee time savings, safety, and ease of installation through design features which are innovative to the commercial markets they serve.

Our staff of solution providers have the experience, knowledge and integrity to offer the training and assistance on all of your commercial projects to assure a hassle free completion. All of our staff are educated and trained with the commercial markets most current best practices on use of products. Please contact us for any assistance we can supply you in learning more about the innovative products we offer.

Industrial

A.L. Pickens Company represents industrial electrical manufacturers which provide solutions, saving time and money on installations. The products we offer are the most advanced in design and performance in the industry, assuring a life cycle which will withstand the test of time & environment. We offer the most complete line of industrial products and accessories in the industry. We have the expertise to assist you with design applications whether the project involves classified hazardous locations, wash down areas, harsh atmospheres, petro chemical or heavy industrial environment; the solutions we provide are set for your application.

Residential

From the panel to the receptacle A L Pickens Company offers a variety of electrical products for the residential construction market. Murray offers superior protection with a complete line of panels, breakers and disconnects for residential applications. Southwire's offering of SimPull Romex allows the easiest installation process for wiring a residential structure. With one of the most recognizable names in the industry, Bussmann provides fusing and disconnect means for HVAC systems.